One of the corner joints DBS offers is an English dovetail construction, also called a “blind” or “half” dovetail. We use only high-quality production equipment to produce this detail. The dovetail joint is recognized as the highest quality and strongest corner joint available in drawer construction. We recommend this corner joint for all types of cabinetry, office furniture and residential furniture

Specifications

- The dovetail cutters used are on 1" centers
- The front and back of the box are the full width and morticed at both ends
- The sides of the box have tenons which mate into the front and back
- The top edges of the front and back are 1/16" taller than the sides
- Standard bottom construction is let in on four sides and includes hot melt on assembled boxes
- Most materials can be dovetailed with favorable results, however, the quality of the cut decreases with softer materials. We do strongly recommend using dovetail construction on all solid materials
